

Welcome to the MSFC NASA People Furlough Website

Welcome to the Marshall Space Flight Center NASA People furlough website! Team members are encouraged to monitor and bookmark this page at <https://nasapeople.nasa.gov/shutdown/msfc.html>. This is a public-facing website that will be available when the Center is closed because of a government shutdown.

On this website, center leadership will share status updates, furlough resources and any other Center specific relevant information with team members before, during and after a government shutdown.

During a shutdown employees should expect to find helpful information here, we will use our 256-544-4357 (4-HELP) line and the Emergency Notification System calls or text messages as new information becomes available.

Thank you as always for your hard work, and for your patience during these stressful and difficult times.

Jody

Jody Singer is the director of NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center.